

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND, WHERE ARE YOU?

Reading Strategy

SET A PURPOSE FOR READING

When you set a purpose for reading, you decide why you are reading one or more works. One reason, or purpose, for reading two works is to find similarities and differences between their main characters.

Directions: As you read each story, fill in the chart with information about the main characters.

	Jerry	Aaron
What are the character’s traits?
What problems does he face?
What choices does he make?
In what way are the characters similar and different?
