Reading Strategy

CONNECT

When you connect with a story, you use your knowledge and experiences to understand what you are reading. A story may remind you of people you know, places you've been, or feelings you've had. You may also think about other stories you have read that are similar.

Directions: In the chart, write details from the story and how they remind you of experiences in your own life. An example has been done for you.

Rachel's Birthday	My Connections
wakes up feeling like she's still ten	I remember that on my 11th birthday I didn't feel any different.
